Jessica Wirsta shows Elk Point champion 4-H steer

"This is a fantastic set of calves, right through," conformation judge Russ Copeland told Elk Point 4-H Beef Project members before heading out to give the slap of approval to the Grand and Reserve champions. Here, in the words of the club's reporter, is a complete rundown on Saturday's Achievement Day.

By Laryssa Cochrane
Elk Point 4-H Club

One down and one to go. The Elk Point 4-H Multi Club held our beef Achievement Day on Saturday, June 5, and what a success it was. We had no major injuries, no calves that went wild and all of the members still had smiles on their faces at the end of the day even though they were exhausted. The calves have definitely grown since the beginning of the year. Calves that started out ranging from 588 to 835 pounds now weighed in at anywhere from 990 to 1390 pounds. That's a lot of beef! The STARS calf, to be raffled off Monday, June 7 at the District Show and Sale, weighed in at 1490 pounds, so one lucky winner will definitely have a full deepfreeze with him in there.

All of the members put a lot of time and effort into their calves and they all looked awesome. The job of judging was a difficult one, since all of the animals were well groomed and the members did a great job of showing their animals. After all was said and done, Shaun Robinson had the Grand Champion Heifer, for the Wozniak Bulk Sales trophy, and Robyn Ockerman took home the Reserve Heifer title, for the Lakeland Tirecraft trophy. Janice Tymofichuk accepted the Grand Champion Cow/Calf award from Ray and Lorraine Danyluk, and Shaun Robinson the Reserve Cow/Calf title and the CJ Petroleum trophy. Janice's cow and calf went on to win the Supreme Female banner from the Danyluk Family, while Shaun's cow and calf took the Reserve for the Lazy H Simmentals trophy. Shaun also took home the title of Grand Champion in the Herds Class, for a trophy donated by George and Diana Anderson. Shaun had a busy morning since he had his cow, calf, a heifer and a steer to get washed up and groomed in time.

The top honors (trophy donors in brackets) in the grooming category for the juniors went to Jared Vallee (Home Town Grocers) with Jessica Wirsta placing second (R. Tremblay Ent.). In the intermediate category, it was Janice Tymofichuk placing first (Dennill's Agricenter Ltd.) and Laryssa Cochrane taking home second (Patch

ELK POINT 4-H MULTI CLUB'S GRAND CHAMPION STEER was shown by Jessica Wirsta. Elk Point Co-op manager Dwayne Odgaard presents the championship banner and trophy. Jessica also took home a first place trophy for Junior Showmanship, another for second in Rate of Gain, and second place trophies for Junior Grooming and Junior Judging to round out a very successful Achievement Day and a successful 4-H year. Great support for STARS at fifth annual golf tourney

STARS REPRESENTATIVES CONGRATULATE TOURNEY WINNERS - STARS representatives Greg Cars (far left) and Cory Enns (far right) congratulated the Cal's Home Hardware team for their Low Score win in the Fifth Annual Elk Point Emergency Services Golf Tournament. Golfers Curtis Porcina, Robyn Moroziuk, Neil Palmer and Mark Woytkiw took home first place honors.

The final total isn't in, but Elk Point Emergency Services Golf Tournament chairman Fred Lambright estimates at least $14,500, "probably closer to $15,000" will go to STARS air ambulance from the fifth annual fundraiser.

Last Wednesday's tournament was the biggest ever, with a whopping total of 122 golfers stretching course facilities to the limit. "We normally have 90 golfers, but because of the interest, we had no choice - we had to expand from 18 to 27 teams. Unfortunately, the facility doesn't get any bigger."

Greg Cars of STARS was on hand for "an outstanding fifth year. This tournament has raised over $62,000 in the past four years, and that could increase to over $75,000 with this year's tournament. But the money is not the big thing - it's the people. The whole community supports this tournament."

The Low Score award went to the Cal's Home Hardware team, while the High Score was a split decision between Elk Point Health Centre and Elk Point and District Ambulance.

Keith Campbell won the Longest Putt award, Shauna Kinjerski the Hidden Hole prize and Ernie Poitras the Closest to the Pin award. Shortest Drive prizes went to Dave McNamara and Cecile Demers.

All golfers received commemorative t-shirts and qualified for draws for a huge array of draw prizes, ranging from caps and t-shirts to golf bags, weekend holidays and even an original artistic

A number of silent auction items were also up for grabs, with lively bidding by participants.

F. G. Miller High visits the Chamber

A delegation from F. G. Miller High School visited last week's meeting of the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce, with an update on the school's achievements and a message of appreciation for businesses in the area.

"We feel we are one of the top 20 schools in Alberta in diploma exam results," principal Jim Hawkins told the Chamber. "We came from near the bottom, and we're quite proud of our students and their achievements." He feels FGM "will always be a good school. Right now, we're an excellent school. We're very much focused on achievement."

"My job is to make sure kids graduate," school counselor Cheri Lindquist said. "We have wonderful programs."

She outlined the Registered Apprenticeship Program (RAP), where a student spends 125 hours working in a business for five high school credits. "After that, they can work there for pay and also receive up to a total of 40 credits." Businesses involved in this program include the Empress Restaurant and Bumper to Bumper. There is a new summer program at Elk Point Health Centre, worth 10 credits, she added. A Green Certificate Program, through Lakeland College, offers 16 credits for hands-on learning in agriculture.

The school and business community cooperate in providing Work Experience for students, and Lindquist told the Chamber members, "you are just wonderful." For 25 hours of work at such businesses as Elk Point Co-op, Apple Drugs, Red Fox Safety and E-Can, a student receives one credit. She added that when the school holds Career Day, or in alternate years, Wellness Day, "the community comes in and helps us."

Grade 12 students also take part in an interview skills workshop, involving various businesses, including this year, Elk Point Co-op. "These mock interviews sometimes end up as a job," Lindquist said. "We really value our community members."

Assistant principal Maureen Ference, who told questioners that yes, her husband IS related to the Calgary Flames Andrew Ference, showed a power-point presentation that will be shown to incoming students and their parents to introduce them to F. G. Miller and its many programs and activities.

The Chamber heard a brief report from the Beautification Committee's Myra Boothman, who said she had added dirt to the entrance sign planters and had the plants in place. The Town has provided tanks for easier watering, and she invited Chamber members to stop by and weed the planters any time they wish.

Dwayne Odgaard said the Shop Locally campaign got underway on schedule, with posters, cards, draw boxes and slips handed out and the buttons coming shortly. He feels "the promotion is being well received." President Rod Randall thanked Odgaard for his efforts, to which Odgaard replied, "we're all in this together, we will make it work together."

Mircea Panciuk told the Chamber about the upcoming Northern Lights Library System Conference, slated for October 15 to 17, with an expanded three-day format, which will bring a number of visitors to town.

Due to the Chamber's summer recess, the next Chamber meeting has been moved back one week to June 23, 6 p.m. at the Empress.

community NEWS*Federal candidates speak out on election issues

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce hosted one of the first all-candidate forums for the new federal riding of Westlock - St. Paul. The forum, held Thursday evening in the Elk Point Seniors Recreation Centre, was already in the planning stages when Prime Minister Paul Martin called an election for Monday, June 28.

Chamber president Rod Randall served as moderator for the evening, and after introducing Conservative candidate David Chatters, Liberal Joe Dion, New Democrat Peggy Kirkeby and Green Party's John A. McDonald, expressed thanks to Gordon Kuhn and Dwayne Vogel for their assistance in preparing for the event.

Joe Dion was first to address the sizable crowd, and said it is "an exciting time to be in politics. Canada is in transition again, and I was part of the last transition." He feels it is "time to bring back the common people to the House of Commons, and to see the issues of western Canada being addressed." The country needs "parliamentarians with will and determination," and Dion said he has "the ability to cross cultural and party lines. I am color-blind when it comes to politics and race." As a youth, Dion "lived off the land on the Kehewin reserve, where I have worked as band manager and as chief." As Alberta's Grand Chief, "I have dealt with prime ministers and premiers." In conclusion, Dion said he feels "this is probably the most important election in decades".

John A. McDonald was second to take the podium, and said "the problem with this campaign is that there's been a lot of 'gimme'. I don't think the electorate is of the same mindset as in the past." He feels the government has "the responsibility of spending your money wisely. It's your money, and the decisions on what you want it spent on should start at the bottom level." McDonald said he "decided not to put up signs and contribute to pollution. They don't improve the look of the countryside." After listing ten points of policy from the party's manual, he said "we're convinced if rational, open-minded people went through the Green Party's long term objectives, they would [vote for us]. We want clean air to breathe and food not corrupted by chemicals. If we don't protect our habitat, where are we going to live?"

As veteran MP for the Athabasca riding, David Chatters said "this is the most exciting election I've been involved in." He feels the election is "an opportunity to define the direction the country will go," and that "westerners may get to choose the government." The Conservative Party is "providing an alternative, a choice for Canadians. Canada has been drifting, and not in a positive direction. Disposable income and health care levels are dropping, and there are a lot of issues." Chatters said "my Canada is a place anyone, including Paul Martin, would be proud to register his company... and to receive health care under a government-run insurance program." He feels "the rights of victims of crime, not the criminals" should be a priority, and where there should be "an option of high spending and high taxes, or low spending and low taxes." Either way, "it is important to hold the government accountable for their spending."

Peggy Kirkeby is confident that the New Democratic Party's platform involves "a lower cost than that proposed by the Conservatives." She feels "something is missing from how the country is being run. The everyday citizen is left out of the picture." The NDP's platform is "aimed at helping families with children, seniors and poor people," and Kirkeby cited such means as removing the GST on children's clothing and books and providing higher tax credits, as well as "making educational funding available now, instead of sometime in the future. It would make a big difference. We need to start with our kids."

Candidates fielded a variety of questions, including the role of relationships between provincial and federal governments, help for cash-strapped agricultural producers, free trade, patent laws on genetically modified, the gun registry, economic conditions on Métis settlements and what each would do if they became the Minister of Indian Affairs. Dion provoked a burst of applause on the latter when he replied, "I am going to be the Minister of Indian Affairs. There have to be major changes made to the department. It's an absolute necessity that change takes place. Just watch me when I get there."

Each candidate was given the opportunity for final remarks.

Kirkeby asked each voter to "think about your priorities... family, building the country. We can lift everyone to a better standard of living."

Chatters told the crowd, "you have a choice to make, on the person and the party you want to represent you. You have to ask yourself if you want a government that admits it doesn't know what's going on in its departments or an honest, ethical, principled government."

McDonald said "I purchased my first gun with gopher tails... that's economy." He invited voters to "take a good look at the Green Party and it's ground-up administration."

Dion said "the answer [of who to vote for] is fairly simple. Decide who is best qualified to cross political and racial lines, and is someone who will fight for you and really represent you in a way you have never been represented before."

"S" is for seniors, now their special week is here
 A time to reflect on these folks we hold dear;
 "E" for all of their efforts that made the community great,
 Attending so many meetings, toiling evenings so late.
 "N" is for needed, to guide us with their know-how - Encouraging us to hang in, and get job done somehow;
 "I" is for insight they've gained through the years Experience brought confidence for them and their peers;
 "O" is for often we forget to say our thanks
 For all the assistance we receive from their ranks.
 "R" is for the rich heritage they have helped keep alive,
 All the traditions and culture that continues to thrive;
 "S" is for special - they're as special as can be!
 Best wishes for a great week to our Senior community!

EASTHOPE
 from the FCSS desk

I hope you seniors don't mind, but I found this neat poem by an unknown author that refers to seniors in a humorous way. Please read and laugh.

I'm still here

How do I know that my youth is all spent?
 Well, my get-up-and-go has got-up-and-went.
 But in spite of it all, I'm able to grin
 When I think of the places my get-up has been.

Old age is golden, so I've heard said,
 But sometimes I wonder, as I crawl into bed,

With my ears in a drawer, my teeth in a cup,
 And my eyes on the table, until I wake up.

Ere sleep dims my eyes, I say to myself,
 "Is there anything else I can lay on the shelf?"
 And I'm happy to say, as I close my door,
 My friends are the same, perhaps even more.

When I was a young thing, my slippers were red,
 I could kick up my heels as high as my head.
 When I got older, my slippers were blue,
 But still I could dance the whole night through.

Now I'm still older, my slippers are black.
 I walk to the store and I puff my way back.
 The reason I know my youth is all spent,
 My get-up-and-go has all got-up-and-went.

But really I don't mind, when I think with a grin,
 Of all the great places my get-up has been.
 Since I have retired from life's competition,
 I busy myself with complete repetition.

I get up in the morning and dust off my wits,
 Pick up the paper and read the obits.
 If my name is missing, I know I'm not dead,
 So I eat a good breakfast and go back to bed.

Heinsburg's Class of 2004 remembers the past, embraces the present, and imagines the future

The past, present and future came together at Heinsburg Community School on Friday evening, as the five member Class of 2004 bid a ceremonial farewell to the school and each other.

Past principals Gary Zuko, Lorne Young and Laverne Wilson and new principal Carl Christensen all took part in the program celebrating the triumphant conclusion of their high school years for graduands Randi Daniels, Maureen Delorme, Nikhoal Durocher, Aaron Jurak and Shantelle Moyah.

The evening began with a banquet, where MC Lorne Brown introduced the graduands and their escorts as they entered through an arch of blue and white balloons, and later introduced their parents and a number of special guests. Gary Zuko offered grace.

Nikhoal Durocher toasted the parents, saying "thank you for everything," with her father, Tommy Durocher honoring all the graduands individually in his reply. Randi Daniels toasted the staff, thanking them for their wisdom and "for believing in us." Roger Thorson replied on behalf of the staff. Maureen Delorme added a toast to her classmates, and said "I'm proud to be part of the Class of 2004."

After a brief recess, the graduands returned to the auditorium for the ceremonies, again with Brown as MC.

Aaron Jurak used a classic poem, "If", as his invocation.

Nikhoal Durocher continued the tradition of passing on the school colors, as she handed over the framed feather and document to Heather Calliou.

Former principal Lorne Young regaled the audience with "the history they provided me" and a few quips of his own about the class, as Curtis Zorniak showed a power point presentation of photos for each of the five. "You have only just started your memories," Young said. "Your life has been fairly scripted to this point. It's all about choices from here on." He told the students it is important to remember the past, "but don't dwell on it. It has made us what we are. Embrace the present by not simply existing but by finding pleasure in the moment." He reminded his former health class students of their discussions about goal setting, but said, "goals are not the be-all, end-all. It's the journey. We should have goals, but we don't all end up where we planned." He cited two speakers' youthful goals of becoming a NHL hockey player and a motorcycle racer, when instead they became local and provincial politicians. "Be strong, be honest, and do well," he concluded.

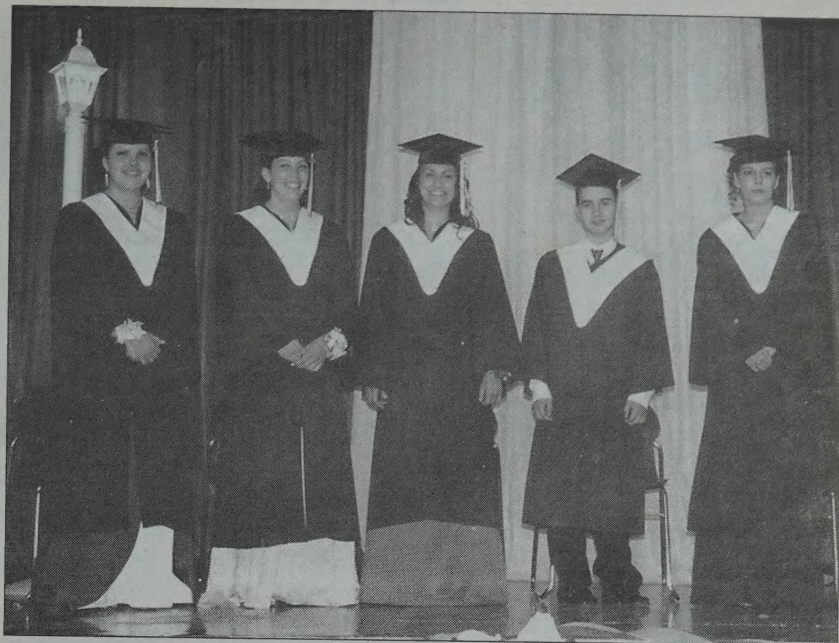

Marjorie Scott brought gifts from the Heinsburg Community Club for the grads, who have "so many exciting times ahead of them. We are proud to have them as part of our community."

Deputy Superintendent of Schools Carmen Brodziak prefaced the presentation of scrolls with an encouraging message. "The significant events in your lives have affected you in many ways. You need to be proud of your accomplishment. You need to make a difference in your community. You have the power and the ability to reach your goals. Don't let go of your dream." She added that "detours are interesting, and challenges are gifts you learn a lot from."

Randi Daniels and Shantelle Moyah shared the Class of 2004 address. Randi spoke of "shared laughter, tears and triumphs," and RESERVE CHAMPION STEER was shown by Matthew Robinson for the Farm Business Consultants trophy banner presented by Scott Low. Matthew also won first place in Rate of Gain with the steer, which gained 3.07 pounds per day.

In our showmanship competition, the judges were looking for members to be smiling and alert to what was happening around them, by watching the judge, placing their calves properly and presenting themselves very tall and proud. Congratulations go to Jessica Wirsta for placing first (Clayton Orr Memorial) and Kayla Gibson for receiving second (L7R Limousins) in the junior category, Robyn Ockerman took home first ((Clayton Orr Memorial) and Marvin Ockerman received second (Zapesocki Trucking) in the intermediate category, while Mike Wandler received first (Clayton Orr Memorial) and Rhonda Wruth placed second (Snap Oilfield Services) in the senior category.

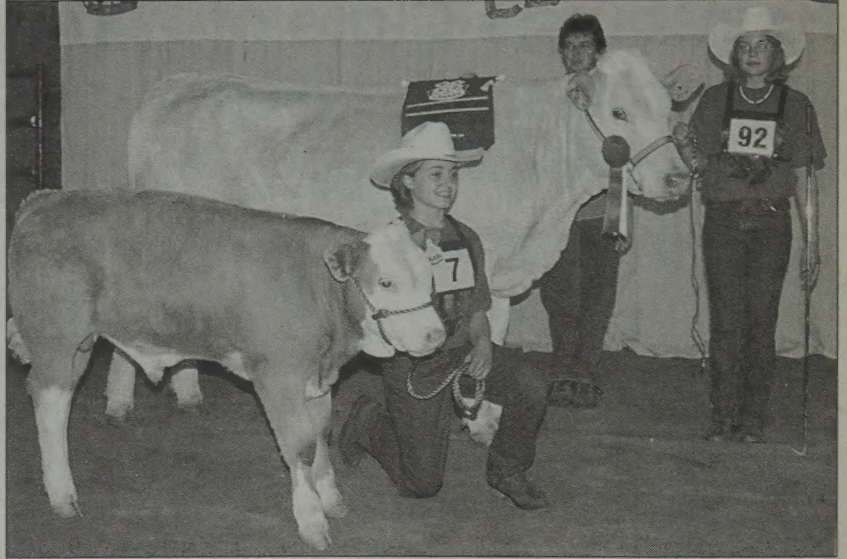

As for all those big beef we weighed in, they were divided into three weight classes, and the top two from each weight class went into the Parade of Champions to determine our Grand Champion and Reserve Champion steers. The steers that were chosen to return for the Parade of Champions, not ranked in any particular order other than by weight class, were shown by Jared Vallee, Janice Tymofichuk, Laryssa Cochrane, Tyson Ockerman, Matthew Robinson and Jessica Wirsta. Wrapping up the year with the Grand Champion Steer banner from Elk Point Co-op was Jessica Wirsta and holding the Reserve Champion Steer, for the Farm Business Consultants banner, was Matthew Robinson. Congratulations to them and to all of our members for a job well done.

Matthew Robinson's steer also took home the Rate of Gain trophy from St. Paul Municipal Seed Cleaning, for a gain of 3.07 pounds per day, while Jessica Wirsta received the second place award from Champion Technologies for a gain of 2.84 pounds.

I would like to take a moment to thank our judges, Bernard Boeckman judging our female class, Russ Copeland judging our steer class, Janelle Labiuk for doing both grooming and showmanship, as well as Jason Boorse for our judging cards.

Special thanks to Kyle Bintz and Dwayne Vogel for being our ringmen. They helped to keep our calves going and lined us up when need ed. Our show clerks were Ellen Seward and Lucille Smith, Orin and Glen Ockerman were our weighmasters, Shelly Tymofichuk and Gisele Robinson were our weight recorders, and Jaylynn Wirsta was our MC for the afternoon. Thanks to the committee that organized the lunch, it was awesome. Thanks to all of our sponsors for their continued support; 4-H is a great organization, and with the support of the community like we receive, it will continue for many more years.

I can't finish without thanking our leaders. Without their leadership, we would not have a club, so thank you to Shelly Tymofichuk, Gisele Robinson, Donna Ockerman and Cathy Ockerman for all of the work that they put into the club this past year.

Double trouble for the Sox

If you recall last week's paper, the Sox were to be at home hosting Sherwood Park on Saturday. Well, things changed during the week, Sherwood Park called and said they had other plans, they were hosting their own tournament, the Sox had one game to make up with Devon, so O.K., let's go on the road.

Double trouble for the Sox, a double header in Beaumont on Saturday against a AA team out of Devon, then another double-header on Sunday in Camrose against another AA team. Playing these teams would be tough enough with a full bench, but to complicate things even more, the Sox all of a sudden found themselves very shorthanded. Five players missing with other commitments, one guy went to play in the band, one had to write an exam, one at a reunion, one was at try outs for the summer games, another one at a grad party, and one on the injury list. Kurt "the Wall" Kozicky is still out with his twisted ankle, leaving the Sox with five players missing, one short to even field nine players. That's when they made the call to the farm system, pulling up Ryan "Little M" MacDonald from the Bad News Bears team, "Little M" coming to the rescue or the Sox may have had to stay home and forfeit the games.

It's hard to believe, but things got even worse when Brodie "Bulldozer" Schmitt took a hard grounder in the first inning of the first game, almost ripping off his fingernail and causing him some great pain. The nail was sticking straight up in the air and squirting blood, a real ugly mess. The games were not that pretty either, but somehow the Sox survived and played them out. Nicky "Fishhook" Myshaniuk pitching the first game, Jordan "Gordo" Cousins, Joel "Luckie" Leckie, Grayson "Big Smack" Bilak and the "Little M" all seeing action in the second game. Not a great day at the plate, Joel "Luckie" Leckie and Grayson "Big Smack" Bilak getting the only hits.

On Sunday down in Camrose the "Fishhook" got the start in the first game again, "Gordo" coming in on relief, Lee "Bo Bo" Letestu doing a fine job in the second game, Joel "Luckie" Leckie finishing the weekend off.

Highlight hits: Joel "Luckie" Leckie with a triple, Grayson "Big Smack" Bilak a triple, Nicky "Fishhook" Myshaniuk a double and a triple with two R.B.I.'s, Brodie "Bulldozer" Schmitt a single, a double and a RBI, Jordan "Gordo" Cousins a sacrifice bunt and a single, Lee "BoBo" Letestu a triple with a RBI and Corbin Poitras with a single.

This coming weekend

, the Sox manager is working on a game for Sunday afternoon at home, the following weekend they have a double, double at home, Saturday against Millet, and Sunday against Sherwood Park.

In other ball news; this past Monday night the girls' Bantam team took it to the boys' Bantam team, the Bad News Bears and defeated them 16 to 6.

Don't take it too hard boys. This is a true story, though Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig were two of baseball's greatest hitters, a woman once struck them out. It happened in 1932, when the Yankees stopped in Chattanooga en route home from spring training camp. A pitching phenomenon named Jackie Mitchell proceeded to strike out Ruth, and Gehrig, a feat that made national headlines. The Bears bounced back and also played Cold Lake this past week and only lost by one run.

And now for the K. A. Campbell's quote of the week. "Next to religion, baseball has furnished a greater impact on American life than any other institution." Last week's answer to - "Any coach who believes he's deciding the game is fooling himself." -Mike Sertich, college hockey coach. Do you have any scoops? By Tracy Kjenner
Contributor

In order for team play to be successful, players must know their positions, be able to effectively pass the ball to teammates, and know exactly how to get around the opposition.

These skills have been practiced and used by the team this season, and will be visible in their upcoming games. Their next home games are on Monday, June 14 and Monday, June 21. They'd love to show you what they can do on the soccer field. Plan to attend!

The team combines having fun and friendly competition as they take on other area teams. Which team is it? They are U10B.

Heinsburg students enjoy camping

Heinsburg Community School's Grade 6 class enjoyed four days at Whiteny Lake United Church Camp last week. Canoeing was a big hit, although a bit on the wet side for participants who capsized. Students enjoyed going fishing and doing some of their own cooking. Eagle Spirit Cultural Programs' Jerry Wood visited with some special activities.

HELPING PEOPLE GET THE JOB DONE!

NIGHTLIFE AT HEINSBURG - This past Saturday marked the first ever Heinsburg small band festival and county fair. The event was held from noon until midnight and featured music, games, flea market, beer gardens, and dinner & dance.

advised her classmates to "believe in yourself and your dreams. Believe in yourself because I believe in you." Shantelle called education "a long and sometimes hard journey. This is not the end for us. We are not done. We will continue to learn from those around us. We are now adults." She thanked "our nearest and dearest. Your love and support helped us to get here." She urged her classmates to "imagine your future and do your best to get there."

Three local school boards were represented. Darrell Youngmans of St. Paul Education Division #1 said "25 years ago, I was the valedictorian here. I don't remember what I said at that time." He told today's grads to "embrace the present, aim high and keep learning. There's always more to learn."

Laverne Wilson, now Director of Frog Lake Education, said his first official duty was to make a presentation to a student from that jurisdiction, Shantelle Moyah. He noted that four of the five administrators in the history of Heinsburg School were present, the fifth being the late Stan Dmytrash.

Herb Lehr of Fishing Lake School Board told the Class of 2004 "you are our future. You are our children, and our future is in your hands. You have bridged the gap between three cultures. You support each other. That's what we need." He spoke of "the illiteracy we used to have. We're now breaking that cycle. We have these young people to go forward and teach the right things as role models."

MLA Ray Danyluk called the night "an accomplishment that has taken time. The audience is people who care about you and helped you to get where you are. It's such a glorified situation to be able to graduate in a school like Heinsburg where the show is about you. We're here because we are so proud of you." He said the graduands are also "very proud, and deservedly so." He urged, "never forget where you are from. It's the greatest part of the world."

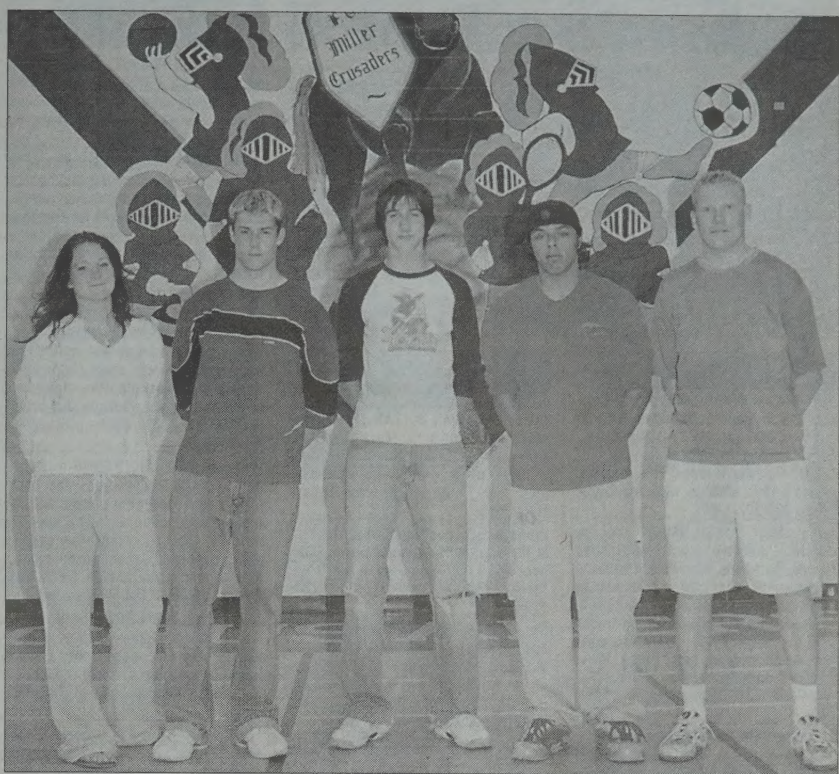

Audrey Delorme brought greetings on behalf of the school council, and said "If there was ever a time to make a difference, it is now. You owe it to yourselves to make your days count. You can do great things. Anything is possible."

Curtis Zorniak counseled the graduands, "you have to want to work hard. The work ethic puts you above everyone else. Expect change, and don't be afraid of it." Having himself gone to NAIT, then to work, and then back to school to become a teacher, he said "a bend in the road is not the end of the road. Use the values you have learned in your future endeavors." He told the audience, "this is an excellent bunch who will someday leave their mark on the world."

Maureen Delorme and Randi Daniels expressed thanks to all the evening's speakers, and to all that helped prepare for the farewell ceremonies.

"Completing high school is one of life's milestones," Principal Carl Christensen told his first Heinsburg grad class. "It's time to look back and ahead... to remember how great life was as a child. When adulthood comes, much comes with it. We grow older and hopefully wiser. Enjoy the good times, and embrace the times that are not as good. I hope the truth you have learned here is such that each of you will be a valuable human being. If you and your generation builds life on those truth, the nation will be greater than any weapons of destruction."

PROVINCIAL TRACK AND FIELD COMPETITORS from F. G. Miller High School were (left to right) Amanda Poulin, competing in Long Jump and 4 x 100m, Corry Bezpalko, 4 x 100m, Travis Lindquist, High Jump and Triple Jump, Jesse Kozicky, 100 m, 4 x 100 m, and (not shown) Tamara Berland, Discus and Shot. At far right is coach Jeff Aarts.
